Floor plan and one-way system

What we've done to help make The Bull Pen safe for customers and staff

- Introduced more space between tables to ensure a 1 metre minimum between all persons
- Front desk screen to ensure separation
- Coronavirus risk assessment has been completed, and a copy can be emailed to you should you wish to read it
- We consider our cleaning schedule and process to already be of the highest standard, but we have also implemented additional sanitising cleans throughout the day, especially at high contact points such as door handles
- All tables and chairs will be cleaned and sanitised after each customer
- we're using disposable menus that will be safely disposed of after each customer
- Cutlery has been pre-wrapped to minimise un-necessary contact
- Limited seating to control the number of guests at any one time
- Marked queueing area to help maintain distance
- Signage throughout the tearooms to help guide and remind staff and customers about important messaging
- We have tried to implement a one way system as per the above plan - we appreciate it's not perfect, but we've done the best we can!
- Hand gel stations at high risk points and high traffic areas for staff and customer use
- We don't use large condiment pots, condiments are available on request
- Removed salt and pepper mills - if you would like salt or pepper, please ask a member of staff
- We are open to suggestions and feedback, please email info@thebullpentearooms.co.uk. We can't promise to respond to everything, but will do our best, and will always take your comments into consideration.
